

BoxedArt Launches ThemeStock.com

Saturday, 24 March 2007

Source: HostReview

ThemeStock (<http://www.themestock.com>), a new library of professionally designed skins for Content Management Systems, was launched today as a sister site of BoxedArt.com and the newest member of the Big Resources Network.

Available exclusively to ThemeStock members, the new site provides unlimited access the world's largest collection of skins for open source Content Management Systems, including Mambo, Joomla, PHP Nuke, PostNuke, osCommerce, CRE Loaded, osCMax, Drupal, WordPress, XOOPs and Zen Cart.

"ThemeStock provides website owners and developers with a unique and unmatched resource to quickly and easily outfit their sites with visually appealing and fully functioning skins," said Mark Greenberg, Marketing Director for Big Resources Inc.

Memberships to ThemeStock are available to end-users on either a quarterly, biannual, or annual basis. Quarterly memberships start at $89.99 and all memberships include unrestricted access to the entire member library.

Developer memberships are also available, and start at $199.99 for 3 months access.

"While there are other providers of CMS skins, most charge per download, or dilute their collections with products that are not designed to be used specifically with a Content Management System. These collections also often only include support for a narrow selection of CMS platforms. In addition, you'd be hard pressed to find providers offering templates representative of the current design styles and trends, including valid XHTML 1.0 transitional and HTML 4.01 coding, which ThemeStock now delivers," said Greenberg.

The site offers skins catering to over 11 leading CMS products, focuses solely on the CMS market, and is expanding regularly. It also provides members with weekly updates and offers designs available for exclusive purchase as well.

ThemeStock members are also eligible to receive a discount at other leading webmaster resource sites, including BoxedArt (<http://www.boxedart.com>), the largest web development library on the Internet, Built2Go (<http://www.built2go.com>), a provider of fully-featured turnkey web sites, and StockedPhotos (<http://www.stockedphotos.com>), a library of royalty free stock photography. Members also receive discounted Web hosting from HTTPCity (<http://www.httpcity.com>).

For more information about ThemeStock, please visit <http://www.themestock.com>.

About ThemeStock

Launched in 2007, ThemeStock is the world's largest membership-based collection of professionally designed skins for Content Management Systems. The site's affordable membership rates, limited edition products, weekly updates, and broad platform support make it an ideal resource for both website owners and developers.

About Big Resources, Inc.

Big Resources' Network of development websites has been a leading source of tools, resources and services in the webmaster community since 1998. The network fills a wide variety of needs with free and premium services including graphics, scripts, original articles, help forums, stock photography, hosting, and much more.

For more information, visit <http://www.bigresources.com>.